Final Reflection:

What worked well?

-The prompts worked well because they helped me create a complete one-page website with all the important sections like the hero, features, pricing, and call-to-action. It was also helpful to add more prompts step by step because it made the design look better each time.

What needed manual fixing?

-Some parts still needed to be fixed manually, like the spacing, alignment, and making sure it looks good on mobile. I also had to adjust some small details like font sizes, colors, and layout to make it look cleaner.

What did you learn about prompting?

-I learned that being clear and specific in prompts gives better results. It’s also easier to improve the website by adding small changes step by step instead of doing everything in one prompt. Adding more details helps make the output better.
